DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: Claims 2-5 and 12-15 claim fastening arrangements comprising welding, soldering, brazing, and adhesives. The specification does not disclose a fastening arrangement, but does disclose a construction technique comprising welding, soldering, brazing, and adhesives. Although the specification was amended to clarify this subject matter, it is still unclear since the phrase "construction technique for the device" is being used. The "device", as used in the claims, refers to the applicant's invention, not in combination with the fixture. Examiner suggests using language such as "attachment techniques" or "fastening arrangements" to provide antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Claims 1, 7-9, 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cura (Des. 210,833). See attached drawing for more details. Cura shows a first pair of parallel wires, and a second pair of parallel wires traverse to and engaging the first pair of wires and defining a rectangular opening that is capable of receiving the head of a suction cup and retaining the neck, and a fastening arrangement for fastening the device to a fixture. One pair of wires is horizontal and the other pair is vertical.

Claim 1, 6-8, 11, 16-18, 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Isenburg (Des. 121,813). See attached drawing for more details.

Isenburg shows a first pair of horizontal, generally parallel, rigid wires (in yellow), a second pair of non-parallel rigid wires (in orange) transverse to and engaging the first pair of rigid wires defining a generally rectangular opening for receiving the head of a suction cup and for retaining the neck in the opening, and a fastening arrangement that holds the second pair of wires attached to the fixture (in blue). The suction cup has a compressible head attached to a neck, the neck is attached to an engagement member, the head is insertable into the opening and the neck is retained in the opening.

Claims 7, 9, 17, 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Brewster (5,039,046). Brewster shows a device for attaching a suction cup, with a compressible head (23) attached to a neck (24), which is attached to the engagement member of the suction cup, to a fixture comprising a pair of rigid, vertical, generally parallel wires (21) defining an opening for receiving the head (23) of the suction cup (20) and for retaining the neck in the opening, and a fastening arrangement for fastening the device to the fixture.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Claims 2-5, and 12-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Isenberg (Des. 121,813) in view of Macek (5,620,105). Isenberg shows all the features claimed in the applicant's invention but does not specifically state that the fixture and device are made of metal since it is a design patent. Macek however shows another caddy and discloses that it is made of metal. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have made the caddy shown in Isenberg out of metal for durability purposes. The further limitation of the device being fastened to the fixture by welding, brazing, soldering or by using adhesive is a design choice and the applicant did not disclose any reason for why the device and fixture critically had to be fastened with one of those techniques. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have chosen to use well-known techniques such as welding, brazing, soldering or by using adhesive in order to securely fix the device to the fixture.

Response to Arguments

The rejections made by the examiner have been modified due to the applicant's amendment of the claims.

Regarding the applicant's arguments towards the Raphael and Standley patents, these are now moot as these references were not used for rejections in this action.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 3632

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
